If you're a Netflix user, then you need to update your streaming service as soon as possible. Earlier this week, Netflix pushed out an update that makes the app much smoother. More importantly, the update also prevents many users from being throttled by their internet connection. You'll probably want to make sure you've updated your device before continuing on with binge-watching any of your favorite shows! Netflix 1.4 Ipa Download - How To Update Your Device And Eliminate Throttling So if you're a Netflix subscriber and have yet to download version 1. 4, here's how to do so. The first thing you'll have to do is open up iTunes or your device's app store. After that, you'll need to search for Netflix and download the app from there. If you've already downloaded Netflix 1.4 on your device, then you might as well update it as well! Once the update has been installed, go ahead and open up the app and binge-watch all of your favorites! Speaking of which, we thought we'd point out our favorite shows right now: Daredevil and Narcos . Both of these shows are special in their own ways and keep us hooked week after week. However, you should really check out this episode of Smarter Every Day too! It's a mind-blowing, yet educational experience that we're sure you'll appreciate. How And When Will Netflix Throttling Be Eliminated? Well, it's not going to be eliminated anytime soon. As we've mentioned plenty of times before, Comcast and other ISPs continue throttling Netflix and other services that use up a significant amount of bandwidth. So if you've been experiencing low quality streaming and buffering issues with your Netflix subscription, there's only one thing you can do: Contact your ISP and try to get them to stop throttling your service. It's a really simple process - you can see how we did it in our Netflix Throttling guide , and we're sure you'll be able to get the same results . Additionally, remember that you always have the option to use a VPN service! A VPN can hide your IP address and unblock content that would otherwise be behind a geo-block. For example, if your ISP is throttling Netflix and you've contacted them but they won't stop, you can always rely on a VPN to unblock the streaming service and eliminate any throttling issues. As we've pointed out numerous times in the past, ExpressVPN is one of the best VPNs currently on the market. With ExpressVPN, you can access Netflix and other streaming sites no matter where you are. That's right, as long as there's a decent internet connection (or wifi), you can now access all of your favorite shows via Netflix! One day soon, we'll all hopefully be able to enjoy the full Netflix experience without any issues. Until then, we highly recommend that you try a VPN service . They'll protect your privacy and unblock content that's blocked by your ISP.
