Online Health 2.0 combines the best of the Health 2.0 content and social media with a podcast, using the cycle of focused examination and discussion to revolutionize health information dissemination. 3/31/2009 Social Media and Health 2.0 Social Media and Health 2.0 Social media are changing the way we keep in touch and share information. They have also changed the way we get health information. People are becoming more skeptical of information obtained from other sources. While traditional sources rely on newspapers, magazines, TV, and radio, new sources have emerged to take their place. The Internet is the new primary way we get information. Online social media sites like Facebook, My Space, and Twitter allow us to share information and knowledge with our peers and use all these new tools to get up to date information. So we use social media to find and share health information. First, we have discovered a health social network that we started, Seton Health 2.0. This website provides 50b96ab0b6

I'm trying to access my models on my view controller. On the view controller I have a navigation controller. I can go to the first view controller, the view controller without a navigation controller. I want to access my variables on the view controller with a navigation controller. My application contains models which aren't the models of the first view controller. I would like to set a global variable "totalscreen" and then access it in every view controller without having to declare it and set it manually. My view controller looks like this: class ViewController: UIViewController { var totalscreen = Int() override func viewDidLoad() { super.viewDidLoad() // Do any additional setup after loading the view, typically from a nib. totalscreen = Int() } override func viewWillAppear(_ animated: Bool) {
